Let's Start!

Let's check into the resort with Sally!

Learning Outcome

Describe characteristics of different people and their jobs.

Ask your partner:

- Have you ever stayed in a resort?
- If you have, what did you like about it?
- If you haven't, would you like to stay in one? Why?

Can Do Statements

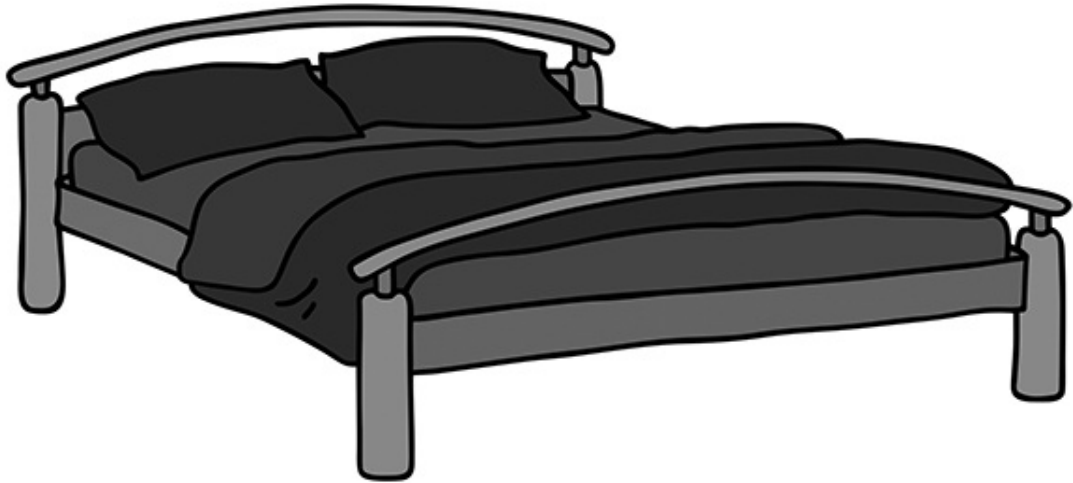

- I can talk about possible actions and events in the future.
- I can talk about rooms and objects in them.
- I can make and respond to offers.

Let's Explore!

The concierge makes Sally an offer. What is it?

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Concierge: Can I help you?
- Sally: Yes. I'd like to check into my room. I have a reservation.
- Concierge: If you don't mind, I'll be with you in just a moment.
- Sally: Okay.
- Concierge: Thanks for waiting, ma'am. What name is the reservation under?
- Sally: Davis.
- Concierge: You'll be in room 309. It's a single room with a queen bed. Will that be okay or would you like to upgrade to a suite?
- Sally: No, thanks. The single room is okay. Does it include an en-suite? What about amenities?
- Concierge: Yes. Each room includes air conditioning, cable TV, a mini refrigerator, a hair dryer, sheets, towels, soap and shampoo/conditioner.
- Sally: Okay.
- Concierge: If you're not satisfied with your room, we'll switch you to another. Just call the front desk.
- Sally: Will I be charged extra if I ask for extra soap?

Learning Points

The First Conditional

You can use the first conditional to talk about actions and situations in the future.

There are two parts to the sentence.

One part is the condition. The other part is the result.

Form:

If + subject + Simple Present tense + subject + will

You use a comma after the condition in this form.

Condition	Result
If you don't mind,	I will be with you in a moment.

You can flip the two parts of the sentence so that the result comes first. It can be in interrogative form.

Form:

Will + subject + if + subject + Simple Present tense ?

Result	Condition
Will the hotel charge extra,	if I order room service?
